Unbelievable umbrella street art

A colourful umbrella art installation floats above this promenade in Águeda, Portugal. It casts a shadow of geometric shapes on the ground below and fills the streets with a fairy tale-like atmosphere. As well as providing shade in the heat of summer it also brings uplifting energy and colour into a quiet street.

Is there anything similar in your country or town?

INTRODUCING SKYE AND JAY

A new start at Belmont Academy

VOCABULARY

Relationships | School | Everyday technology | Vacation and travel | Means of transportation | Opinion adjectives

GRAMMAR

Comparatives and superlatives | Present Perfect with for and since

1 Read the text below. What has changed in Skye's life? Circle.

her daily routine her friends her hobbies her home her school

My name is Skye Winter-Fox and I'm sixteen. After a year in Woodley Bridge with my grandma, I now live in the city again with my parents. My parents usually travel abroad a lot for their jobs, but now they work in London. I'm really happy to be home with my mom and dad again. I sometimes stay with my grandma on weekends. Her home is really nice, but pretty small. At my parents' house, I have a big bedroom; so, there's more space to hang out with my friends. I love taking pictures of my classmates. When I'm alone, I also like writing songs. I start my new school, Belmont Academy, on Monday. My neighbor, Jay, goes to the same school. We get on really well. My friend Dan also starts there on Monday. Dan's going to Belmont Academy because his mom wants him to go to an international school. Dan's not worried at all, but I am. I hope my first day goes well!

2 Read the text again. Decide if the sentences are true (T) or false (F).

- 1  F Skye's grandmother lives in a large city.
- 2  Skye's parents no longer work abroad.
- 3  Skye's grandmother always comes to visit her on weekends.

- 5  Jay lives near Skye.

- Jay: It's great. I'm sure you'll love it, too.
- Skye: But I don't know what it's like at an international school. And it's bigger than my old school in Woodley Bridge.
- Jay: Well, you hear lots of different languages every day because there are students from about forty countries. I think it's the friendliest school round here.
- Skye: That's cool. And they don't have a uniform!
- Jay: No, you can wear what you like. It's more relaxed than other schools.
- Skye: That will be a nice change. The curriculum looks good, too. I might try some different extracurricular activities.

This is a picture of me, Alisha, and Tom. Alisha moved to Scotland because of her dad's job. I sometimes see Tom, but we don't go to the same school anymore. My mom wanted me to speak more Spanish and there are lots of Spanish-speaking students at my new school, Belmont Academy. I didn't want to leave my old school at first, but now I'm pretty excited. I'm not ready for school yet, though! I only flew back from the USA yesterday. I spent the summer with my brother, Ed. We took the train down to Florida and we had a great time. | 3 two languages                      | 4 six adjectives |

Hi! I'm Nina and I'm from Colombia. We moved to the UK this summer and I've been here for about a month. London is all right, but it still feels strange. It's very different from Medellin, where I grew up. For a start, there are no mountains or cable cars. In Medellin, we have some awesome views. They're both big, noisy cities, though.

I'll start a new school on Monday. I visited it last week, but there weren't any students there as it's summer vacation now. I speak Spanish at home, but I learned English at school in Medellin. I'm worried about the language in the UK, as American English is a little different from British English. I've had an English tutor for two weeks and I've also tried to watch a lot of British TV since I arrived. It's pretty funny and it has helped a lot. I still have problems with British English vocabulary, but I think I'll be able to make friends easily.

How to get out of your comfort zone!

It's the start of a new school year. Everyone's getting back into their "normal" routine, so it seems like a good time to challenge yourself.

Here's a simple idea. Why not surprise yourself and <sup>1</sup>change / make your daily routine? You could travel a different way to school. You never know - you might <sup>2</sup>have / make an adventure! Why not eat your meals in a different place or get up earlier and do some yoga? Our brains <sup>3</sup>have / get a buzz out of change, so it'll help you enjoy your day and focus on what you're doing.

I love making videos, but I was always too shy to share them. Then last month I made myself post my work online. Now people like to comment, <sup>4</sup>give / get their opinions and criticize, but I don't mind. Good comments <sup>5</sup>make / boost my confidence, but I try to <sup>6</sup>take / get on board negative comments, too. Marco

I tried this idea on my birthday: allow a friend to <sup>7</sup>boost / make plans for you! Your friend chooses a place to go. You have to see a movie you wouldn't normally choose or try a new activity. I was really excited about my day - and a bit anxious, too. But I decided to <sup>8</sup>have / give it a go and now I have a new hobby: juggling! Carly

11 Discuss in pairs. Do you agree with the sentences in Activity 8? Why? / Why not?

Woman: Oh. The number 7 doesn't stop here. It goes on the other bus stop, around the corner.

Nina: Thank you! Oh, no, the bus is leaving. I don't believe it! Wait!

Skye: Hi. Are you going to Belmont Academy? A lot of students take this bus. I'm Skye. This is Jay.

Nina: I'm Nina.

Jay: Oh, here comes another bus.

Nina: Thank goodness for that!

Skye: Hey, Dan. This is Nina. She's starting at Belmont, too.

Dan: It's nice to meet you, Nina. Where are you from?

Nina: I'm from Colombia, but I'm living in London now. Is it always this cold here?

Dan: Um, yes, pretty often. What's it like in Colombia? I'd really like to go there. I love traveling. Oh, by the way ...

Fitting in

Have you ever felt that it's hard to fit in with the people around you? Wanting to belong is part of growing up, but it's definitely more difficult when you move to a new country. This group of young immigrants talks about the challenges they face in the USA.

Mateo Martinez is fifteen, but his family moved to the USA from Mexico when he was a few years old. Although he loves his life in the USA, Mateo still faces stereotypes. "Some Americans expect me to be lazy," he explains. "That's what they think of Mexicans. I don't take it personally, but I don't like that kind of label." Another thing which annoys Mateo is when other students ask if he speaks "Mexican" at home. "Some people don't know that we speak Spanish," he says. "Our countries are neighbors, so people should be aware of our language and culture."

Ji-Min Choy arrived a few months ago. When I meet her, she's searching for a video on YouTube. In the video, Barack Obama is speaking about immigrants as a big part of American history: "We don't simply welcome new arrivals – we are born of immigrants." "I love this speech," says Ji-Min. "It makes me feel welcome. Do you know that almost one quarter of the USA population are first or second generation immigrants?" That definitely makes life in this big country easier, but there are still awkward moments for Ji-Min. "Many Americans don't really know where South Korea is!," she says.

Vanessa Defay, from Haiti, was anxious before she arrived last year. She thought that finding new friends would be her biggest problem, but she was wrong. "Making friends is simple because some other students speak Creole, which is my language, and Spanish, which I learned at school. But I often don't understand the teachers when they speak fast." Adele Parker, an English teacher, is helping Vanessa. Adele knows that many children move here due to various problems in their home countries. "Learning a new language is a huge challenge for immigrants. I teach students about the culture, too, and help them integrate through extra social activities."

- 3 Read the article again. Mark the sentences true (T) or false (F).

- T Mateo says some Americans think of Mexicans in a fixed way.
- Mateo feels people should have some knowledge of the countries around them.
- Americans are usually familiar with Ji-Min's home country.
- Vanessa guessed correctly about the problems she would have in the USA.
- Adele helps immigrants with more than just learning the language.

In 2014, thirteen-year-old Malavath Purna became the youngest girl to climb Mount Everest. She was living in a village in the countryside with her parents when a government organization chose her and a friend for the mountain challenge. At the time, Malavath was looking for a chance to do something different and she was happy to go. She flew for the first time in her life to a special mountain center where she trained for eight months. The training was hard and sometimes the temperature dropped as low as  $-35^{\circ}\text{C}$ . Malavath also hated the packaged food that she had to eat. It didn't smell nice and she missed her mom's cooking! The climb lasted fifty-two days. At times it was dangerous and they had to walk very slowly, but Malavath didn't give up. When she finally raised India's flag on the highest peak in the world, she said she felt great and very proud of herself. Since the climb, Malavath has gone back to school because she couldn't study while she was training. She's also met the prime minister, who encouraged her to complete her studies. Has the climb changed her? Definitely! Now she wants to climb more mountains around the world.
